Since we are strictly publishers, we rarely have the actual results subscribers achieve by acting on our recommendations and, therefore, the above percentage gains and losses are rarely based on actual trades. Rather, our tracking is based on the market price of each security one hour following transmission of our trading recommendations, with the following exceptions and disclaimers:

1. If we recommend a limit price, the trade is not considered executable until the limit is reached.
2. In the event that we receive copies of confirmation statements from a subscriber on a particular trade, we use that figure instead.
3. In all cases, the numbers in the table are quoted before commissions and the actual results of each investor may vary due to differences in prices achieved and broker commissions paid.
